Description:

Please join us to learn about Radiation Injury Treatment Network (RITN) and provide the healthcare team education on patient management in the event of a radiology related disaster. Discussions are included on the basics of Acute Radiation Syndrome as well as sources to reference for more detailed treatment instructions.

Audience:

This course is designed for hospitalists, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, advanced practice nurses, registered nurses, allied health professionals, physicians, and residents.

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Describe the role of the Radiation Injury Treatment Network
- Explain the response flow for victims planned by the federal government
- Describe basic radiation biology and 3 possible radiological event scenarios.
- Identify 4 Acute Radiation Syndromes

Accreditation:

The HCA Healthcare Continental Division is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Commercial Support:

This activity was developed without support from any ineligible company.

*The ACCME defines ineligible companies as those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. Note: The ACCME does not consider providers of clinical services directly to patients to be commercial interests - unless the provider of clinical services is owned, or controlled by, an ACCME defined ineligible company.

Disclosure:

The HCA Healthcare Continental Division is committed to providing CME that is balanced, objective, and evidence-based. In accordance with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education Standards for Integrity and Independence all parties involved in content development are required to disclose all conflicts of interest with ACCME defined ineligible companies. The HCA Healthcare Continental Division has identified, reviewed, and mitigated all conflicts of interest that speakers, authors, course directors, planners, peer reviewers, or relevant staff disclose prior to the delivery of any educational activity. The CME planning committee who are in a position to control the content of this CME Activity have no relevant financial relationships with ineligible companies to disclose.
